Application Open: Library of Congress Asian Division’s Florence Tan Moeson Fellowship

Discussion published by Jonathan Loar on Tuesday, November 1, 2022

Dear Colleagues,

Interested in pursuing research in Asian Studies at the Library of Congress? Consider applying for the Asian Division’s Florence Tan Moeson Fellowship. This short-term fellowship is ideal for faculty at all levels, graduate and undergraduate students, librarians, independent researchers – any and all with a research project that can make use of the collections accessible in the Library’s Asian Reading Room. Deadline for applications is January 16, 2023.

For more on the fellowship and how to apply, please see: https://www.loc.gov/research-centers/asian/about-this-research-center/fellowship-information/.

To learn more about the Asian collections, please see the assorted research guides on the Asian Reading Room website: https://www.loc.gov/research-centers/asian/researcher-resources/research-guides/.

Kind regards,

Jonathan Loar
South Asia reference specialist
Asian Division Library of Congress

Related date: September 1, 2022 to January 16, 2023