

ANN: Interviews with the Indigenous Kaingang people of southern Brazil about the impact of deforestation and their relationship to the environment

Discussion published by Darren R. Reid on Friday, November 4, 2022

As part of the ongoing Kaingang Oral History Project, we have just released our second short film. In this video, members of that people discuss the impact deforestation has had upon their people, as well as their wider attitude towards the environment. As always, the KOHP invites discourse and conversation among scholars, educators, and students.
