

Transdisciplinary Journal of Management

Announcement published by Robert Kirkland on Wednesday, January 11, 2023

Type:

Journal

Subject Fields:

Business History / Studies, Economic History / Studies, Humanities, Public Policy, Social Sciences

We welcome the submission of manuscripts to our new OA journal.

The Transdisciplinary Journal of Management is a multidisciplinary journal committed to fostering and sharing original research, case studies, and other contributions to support a diverse and inclusive society of well-managed, high-performing organizations that instill individual dignity, ethical management, and a sense of social responsibility. We not only feature publications that present novel insights into business management, but also those articles that address management trends and challenges in non-profits, education, the arts, health care, and other non-business organizations.

As a management journal, we particularly value articles that are interdisciplinary in nature and that aim to build meaningful connections to other fields, including but not limited to psychology, sociology, history, and economics. While we publish articles that are grounded in rigorous scholarship, they are presented in a readable, non-technical format such that the content is accessible to all management practitioners and leaders of organizations.
