

SHEAR Mentorship Program

Announcement published by Emily Arendt on Tuesday, February 7, 2023

Type:

Call for Volunteers

Date:

March 1, 2023

Subject Fields:

African American History / Studies, American History / Studies, Slavery, Native American History / Studies, Atlantic History / Studies

The Society for Historians of the Early American Republic (SHEAR) is creating an informal mentorship program between graduate students and junior to mid-level scholars of early American history. This mentorship program is designed to be an ongoing relationship to help to demystify the historical profession as graduate students work their way through early career milestones. The program is open to scholars of early America across disciplinary interests, backgrounds, and career trajectories. Participants are required to adhere to SHEAR's Statement of Values (available at <http://www.shear.org/wp-content/uploads/2022/05/SHEAR-Statement-of-Values-2022.pdf>) and be members of SHEAR. (Note: If a mentee and/or a mentee's graduate program is unable to pay the membership fee--only $30 for students--we hope that mentors would be open to sponsoring their mentee. At the same time, we do not want to turn anyone away from this program, so please be in touch if you need help finding funding for the membership fee.)

Mentors will be scholars of early American history at the junior to mid-level (including recent PhDs), and mentees will be advanced graduate students. Mentors and mentees will be matched based on their own professional goals (whether they'd like to be matched based on area of specialization, career track, background, etc.). Once matched, mentors and mentees will decide for themselves how to navigate their relationship going forward (virtual meetings, in person at SHEAR, etc.). Mentors are encouraged to consider the needs of their mentees in this regard.

Please fill out the application form by March 1 to indicate your interest in and commitment to the program as either a mentor or mentee. The organizers will match mentors and mentees in accordance with participants' responses, and reach out via email with preliminary steps in the program in early spring, including a potential coffeehouse-style meetup over Zoom in early spring. The program will officially launch to coincide with SHEAR's 2023 Annual Meeting in Philadelphia (both in-person and virtual meetings between mentors and mentees available).

**Thanks to those who responded to our request for comments on the development of the mentorship program last fall—please also fill out this form if you are still interested in participating as a mentor or mentee.****

Feel free to reach out to Emily Arendt (emily.arendt@msubillings.edu), Jacqueline Beatty (jbeatty@ycp.edu), or Nora Slonimsky (nslonimsky@iona.edu) with any questions.

Contact Info:

Emily J. Arendt, PhD

Associate Professor

Chair, Department of History

Montana State University Billings

Contact Email:

emily.arendt@msubillings.edu

URL:

<https://forms.gle/EqmoqHFAzp9Zn72s6>