Curation and artistic design: Ananya Mukherjea, Jeffrey Bussolini, Shark Roth, Al Huckabee

A show of cat-produced and cat-human dialogue artworks that emphasize felines as artmakers involved in the exploration and manipulation of materials. Painting, photography, sculpture, and conceptual pieces demonstrate felines taking part in processes of ordering, disordering, marking, and interaction that profoundly alter the lived environment and demonstrate intention, aesthetics, and gesture. The show includes cat artworks from the 1950s up to the current efflorescence of feline participation in artistic practice.
