

Why are women invisible in discussions about nationalism?

Discussion published by jill vickers on Monday, May 16, 2016

Recently, I wrote a post about women's participation in nation-making by participating in secessionist projects. The result?

Silence...not one comment...not even a complaint. Unfortunately this is common for H-Nationalism. Despite extensive research that shows the importance of mass participation by women in nation-making in countries as diverse as India and Finland, the US and the Phillipines, Scotland and Catalonia women are invisible in our discussions. Why is this ? Or will silence also meet this post ?