

Genocide Studies and Prevention Issue 10.1 Symposium 'Genocide Studies, Colonization, and Indigenous Peoples' & General Issue Now Online

Announcement published by Melanie O'Brien on Wednesday, June 15, 2016

Type:

Online Digital Resources

Location:

Australia

Subject Fields:

Ethnic History / Studies, Holocaust, Genocide, and Memory Studies, Human Rights, Law and Legal History, Political Science

The latest issue of Genocide Studies and Prevention: An International Journal (GSP), 10.1, is now available online. The issue contains a symposium on 'Genocide Studies, Colonization, and Indigenous Peoples', guest edited by David MacDonald and Tricia Logan, and general articles, as well as book and film reviews. This issue of GSP is the very embodiment of the interdisciplinary nature of the journal. We have five articles, spanning the fields of history, politics, ethnic studies, law, anthropology and international relations. Geographically, the articles analyse genocides on four continents: Africa, Asia, Europe and North America.

GSP is the official journal of The International Association of Genocide Scholars \(IAGS\). GSP is a peer-reviewed journal that fosters comparative research, important new work, case studies, the links between genocide, mass violence and other human rights violations, and prevention and punishment of genocide and mass violence. The E-Journal contains articles on the latest developments in policy, research, and theory from various disciplines, including history, political science, sociology, psychology, international law, criminal justice, women's studies, religion, philosophy, literature, anthropology, and museology, visual and performance arts and history.

Contact Info:

Dr Melanie O'Brien, Editorial Board, Genocide Studies and Prevention

Contact Email:

mobrien@genocidescholars.org

URL:

<http://scholarcommons.usf.edu/gsp/>