

Summer in Cuba With North Carolina State University

Announcement published by Nicholas Robins on Tuesday, January 30, 2018

Type:

Summer Program

Location:

North Carolina, United States

Subject Fields:

Colonial and Post-Colonial History / Studies, Environmental History / Studies, Ethnic History / Studies, Latin American and Caribbean History / Studies, Social History / Studies

North Carolina State University is excited to announce the 2018 Summer in Cuba program, based in Havana with excursions to other regions. The program runs for three weeks, May 19 - June 9, 2018 and is open to students from other universities.

Students may take one or both of the following three credit courses: "Environmental History of Cuba," (HI 395) and "Cuba Today: Historical and Sociopolitical Perspectives" (HI 295) Both courses are offered in English, and although it is preferred that students have completed two semesters of Spanish, it is not a requirement.

Please note that the application due date is February 15, 2018.

Contact Info:

Nicholas A. Robins

Teaching Associate Professor
Director, Summer in Cuba Program
Department of History
North Carolina State University
Withers Hall 467
Raleigh, NC, 27695-8108

Contact Email:

narobins@ncsu.edu

URL:

http://packabroad.ncsu.edu/index.cfm?FuseAction=Programs.ViewProgram&Program_ID=3538