

Three New Soyuz Pieces on Anthropology News: Romanian Mobilities: Vehicles of Migration in New Europe

Discussion published by Deborah Jones on Monday, February 6, 2017

Soyuz has three, count 'em three new pieces up on Anthropology News, all surrounding the theme of "Romanian Mobilities: Vehicles of Migration in New Europe." Check out Andrey Vozyanov's "Relics of the Future: The Sociotechnical Functions of Secondhand Trams in Romanian Cities"; Anatolie Coşciug's "Transnational Motorways: The Secondhand Car Trade in a Country of Migration"; and Elena Popa's "Fellow Passengers: Roma and Romanian Migrants in France." Find Andrey's piece from the Anthropology News homepage (links to the other pieces are in the article), or the whole trio here: <http://www.anthropology-news.org/.../romanian-mobilities-ser.../>

And in case you missed it in December, Nelli Sargysan's "Making Sense of Post-Election Realities through Post-Soviet Studies" and some other pieces from 2016 are still unlocked here: <http://www.anthropology-news.org/.../soyuz-postsocialist-stu.../>

As always, I'm happy to hear your ideas for submissions to AN. You can reach me at jdeborah@umich.
