

Call for Papers - 2017 Midwest Medieval History Conference

Discussion published by Amy Bosworth on Wednesday, April 12, 2017

Type:

Call for Papers

Date:

April 11, 2017 to June 1, 2017

Location:

United States

Subject Fields:

European History / Studies, Islamic History / Studies, Medieval and Byzantine History / Studies, Sexuality Studies, Women's & Gender History / Studies

Fifty-Sixth Annual Midwest Medieval History Conference

September 29-30, 2017

Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, Michigan

Keynote speaker: Ruth Mazo Karras,

The University of Minnesota Twin-Cities

"Thou Art The Man: King David and Medieval Masculinities."

The Midwest Medieval History Conference is seeking papers for its annual conference. Papers addressing any aspect of the Middle Ages are welcome, however those addressing gender and women, the medieval environment and material culture, and digital humanities are particularly encouraged. In addition to traditional conference panels focusing on research, the MMHC also invites proposals on medieval history in the classroom or on public engagement. Friday afternoon sessions are dedicated to Graduate student research papers and submissions from Graduate students are encouraged

Submission deadline: June 1, 2017. Submit abstracts for papers or presentations to Amy Livingstone at alivingstone@wittenberg.edu

Contact Info:

Amy Livingstone - Wittenberg University

Contact Email:

alivingstone@wittenberg.edu

URL:

<http://mmhc.slu.edu/2017.html>

Related date:

June 1, 2017