The mission of our publication is to explore libraries within broader historical, humanistic, and social contexts. We welcome scholars from History, English, Literary Studies, Sociology, Gender/Women's Studies, Race/Ethnic Studies, Political Science, Architecture, and other disciplines, provided that their research concerns libraries, book history, the history of reading, or similar topics.

If interested, please send an e-mail to LCHS@press.psu.edu. Include a brief statement (a few sentences) to introduce yourself, and attach a CV or resume which emphasizes your educational background and your experiences in scholarly publishing and reviewing. Candidates who have been positively vetted will be added to our database and encouraged to complete their registration in the system.

We look forward to hearing from you!
