

The Third Reich History Podcast

Announcement published by Ryan Stackhouse on Wednesday, August 30, 2017

Type:

Online Digital Resources

Date:

August 24, 2017

Subject Fields:

German History / Studies, Holocaust, Genocide, and Memory Studies, Military History, Modern European History / Studies, Research and Methodology

Chris Osmar and I have started a podcast featuring book reviews, discussion, interviews, news from the H-net feeds, and emerging research about Nazi Germany. The first project is to cover literature on the secret police in the End Phase. Discussions anchor each episode as we work through the material, pull information from our own research, and bounce around ideas.

I am a recently hooded Walbolt Fellow and Chris is a current Martin-Vegue Fellow from Florida State University. We both research the Gestapo from different perspectives. Chris focuses on the policing of foreign workers while I examine enforcement practices against Germans.

If this sounds up your strasse, you can subscribe through iTunes, GooglePlay, or input our RSS feed directly into your podcast app of choice: <https://feeds.feedburner.com/TheThirdReichHistoryPodcast>

Interested in joining the conversation with an interview about your research? Know someone who may be? Don't hesitate to get in touch!

Ratings and reviews help grow the audience, so if you like what you hear, please consider letting others know. We hope you find it interesting and welcome your feedback!

Contact Info:

J. Ryan Stackhouse

Contact Email:

jrs10h@my.fsu.edu

URL:

<https://thirdreichhistoryblog.wordpress.com/>