Call for Papers

Date:

August 6, 2018

New York, United States

Subject Fields:

African American History / Studies, American History / Studies, Cultural History / Studies, Humanities, Music and Music History

This is a conference produced by Jazz at Lincoln Center in New York. More focused on performers and industry leaders, there does seem to be some space for a panel or two, with any proposal. I plan on putting forth a panel focused on Jazz, Literature, and Archival matters. Any and all panelists are welcome to contact me and put forth what they think would work better, in terms of a panel. This is a fantastic opportunity, and I thank you for taking the time to read about this.

Previous years' panels include "Gender and Jazz" and "Jazz, Politics, and Activism": I think there is more than enough space to host something different, to really dive deep into this subject and its history, and see what's going on, and to present it to others.
