

Roundtable Reviews

Page published by Dan Karalus on Friday, April 4, 2014

The H-Environment Roundtable Reviews provide multiple perspectives on books, and allow authors the opportunity to respond. This format is intended as a conversation that invites discussion of recent scholarship.

Note: Due to the migration to the H-Net Commons, the URLs described inside the PDFs for all previously published Roundtable Reviews (Vol. 4, No. 2 and earlier) are no longer valid. Please refer to your browser's address field for the URL of this page and the new URLs for each individual contribution and PDF for the most up-to-date citations.
