

Call for chapters: Rhetorics of veg\(etari\)anism

Announcement published by Cristina Hanganu-Bresch on Thursday, August 16, 2018

Type:

Call for Papers

Date:

August 10, 2018 to September 30, 2018

Location:

Pennsylvania, United States

Subject Fields:

Animal Studies, Composition & Rhetoric, Cultural History / Studies, Humanities

Greetings! I am soliciting chapters for an anthology to be published with an academic press and which will cover a wide range of rhetorical perspectives on veganism as identity, practice, ideology, and discursive ecology. Broad topic areas may include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Veg(etari)an techne: crafting veg(etari)an arguments about ethics, health, the environment;
- Rhetorics of anti-veg(etari)an discourses: points of view from science, medicine, nutrition; popular culture - including social media, TV)
- Representations of veg(etari)ans and veg(etari)anism in the media
- Veg(etari)an affect: rhetorical sentiments around meat eating/animal exploitation
- The sensuous veg(etari)an (e.g., veg(etari)an cookbooks and websites)
- Veg(etari)an rhetorical intersections: feminism, racism, environmentalism, ableism

Please send inquiries and chapter abstracts not to exceed 300 words to Cristina Hanganu-Bresch, c.hanganu-bresch@usciences.edu by September 30, 2018. Selected authors will be invited to submit chapters between 5000-7000 words by July 2018 [tentative date].

Full C F P here:
<https://docs.google.com/document/d/1pW-XQPJOvwm4FCqLddDurBCAYKKGKbbBW05cjej1mm84/edit?usp=sharing>

Contact Info:

Cristina Hanganu-Bresch, PhD, Associate Professor of Writing and Rhetoric, University of the Sciences, Pennsylvania

Contact Email:

c.hanganu-bresch@usciences.edu

URL:

<https://docs.google.com/document/d/1pW-XQPJOvwm4FCqLddDurBCAYKKGKbbBW05cjej1mm84/edit?usp=sharing>