

PhD program in History of Medicine at Johns Hopkins

Announcement published by Nathaniel Comfort on Monday, September 17, 2018

Type:

Announcements Administration

Date:

September 1, 2018 to December 31, 2018

Location:

Maryland, United States

Subject Fields:

American History / Studies, Early Modern History and Period Studies, East Asian History / Studies, History of Science, Medicine, and Technology, Women's & Gender History / Studies

The Department of the History of Medicine at Johns Hopkins, founded in 1927 by William H. Welch, is accepting applications for its PhD program, for matriculation in the Fall of 2019. Our PhD students are fully funded for five years and are very competitive for academic jobs, museum work, and other related areas. We have expertise in African, East Asian, European, and American history, from the Pre-modern era to the present,

We are hosting several visiting days this fall, in which students may meet the faculty and students, attend Colloquium and join us for happy hour afterward. These are all held on Thursdays and unless the student is within easy driving distance a 1-2 night stay is recommended.

If you are interested in applying to our program, or have students who you think would enjoy and benefit from it, please contact Nathaniel Comfort, Director of Graduate Studies, Johns Hopkins University, comfort@jhmi.edu.

Contact Info:

Prof. Nathaniel Comfort, Director of Graduate Studies

Dept. of the History of Medicine

Johns Hopkins University

Contact Email:

comfort@jhmi.edu

URL:

<http://www.hopkinshistoryofmedicine.org/>