

Announcing H-Postal-History

Discussion published by Jesse Draper - Associate Director, Networks on Friday, October 26, 2018

Announcing H-Postal-History

H-Net proudly welcomes H-Postal-History to its family of nearly 200 networks, now available on the H-Net Commons. Read on and follow the links below for more information about these exciting new networks!

H-Postal-History exists to encourage the cross-fertilization of different approaches to, and understandings of, postal history, particularly between academics and philatelic researchers and writers. It provides a community and a platform for the exchange of ideas and of information regarding publications, projects, events, and private and public collections available to researchers. The intended audience includes scholars, graduate students, and independent researchers studying postal history, of any time and place, including postal logistics, infrastructure, networks, and technology, as well as the mail.

H-Postal-History Editorial Staff

Susan Smith - Winton M. Blount Research Chair, Smithsonian National Postal Museum

Scott Tiffney - American Philatelic Research Library

H-Postal-History Advisory Board

Cheryl Ganz, Smithsonian Institution Curator Emerita

Richard R. John, Professor of History and Communications, Columbia University

Shelia Brennan, Director of Strategic Initiatives at the Roy Rosenzweig Center for History New Media, and Research Associate Professor in the Department of History and Art History

Terence Hines, Board Member of the Postal History Society

Gary Loew, Secretary Treasure of the Postal History Society

Sarah Johnson, Putnam County Historian (NY)

Joseph Adelman, Assistant Professor of History, Framingham State University

All H-Postal-History content is freely accessible at: <https://networks.h-net.org/h-postal-history>

You can contact the editors of H-Postal-History here: editorial-postal-history@mail.h-net.org