

Want to Host WHEATS 2019?

Discussion published by Katrin Boniface on Friday, December 7, 2018

Workshop for the History of Environment, Agriculture, Technology, & Science

WHEATS is an intensive, cutting-edge conference for graduate students and recent PhDs who study the environment, agriculture, technology and science from a historical perspective.

WHEATS began in 2004 at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Since then it has been hosted at the University of Western Ontario, the University of Virginia, the University of Georgia, Kansas State University, Mississippi State University, the University of Wisconsin, the University of Pennsylvania, the University of Kansas, the University of Colorado Boulder, Rutgers_University, and SUNY Albany.

WHEATS 2018 was held at the University of California, Riverside. UC Riverside started its life as a Citrus Experiment Station, and still has a strong agricultural program. For more information, see <https://wheats2018.wordpress.com/>

There is a detailed handbook for running WHEATS, which will be passed on to the next host institution. It is recommended that there are at least two graduate students and one faculty sponsor interested in organizing. It is a fantastic experience for hosts and participants alike. Want to host WHEATS 2019? Contact KatrinBoniface@gmail.com

Kat

Katrin Boniface
UC Riverside, History
WHEATS 2018 Co-chair
EHC President
katboniface.equinehistory.org