

1st International Conference on Peace and Conflict Resolution (ICPCR)

Announcement published by Zohreh Kharazmi on Friday, January 11, 2019

Type:

Conference

Location:

Iran

Subject Fields:

Diplomacy and International Relations, Human Rights, Islamic History / Studies, Middle East History / Studies, Social Sciences

Call for Papers

1st International Conference on Peace and Conflict Resolution (ICPCR)

Tehran, Iran, April 29-30, 2019

The Faculty of World Studies (FWS) at the University of Tehran, in collaboration with the Institute for Political and International Studies (IPIS) at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Iranian National Commission for UNESCO and the Iranian Peace Studies Scientific Association will host the 1st International Conference on Peace and Conflict Resolution (ICPCR), on April 29-30, 2019 at the Faculty of World Studies, UT.

The event aims to bring together key international figures, scholars and social activists who are dedicated to promoting peace and resolving conflicts. The keynote speakers will come from different countries and civil associations with rich relevant experience in this field. The panels are designed to include theoretical and conceptual approaches to peacebuilding and mediation of conflicts, as well as practical approaches. At the end of each panel, a question and answer section will allow for more constructive discussions between presenters and participants.

Conference Important Dates

Abstract Submission: February 4, 2019

Paper Submission: March 30, 2019

Conference Dates: April 29-30, 2019

Other essential details on conference themes, our committees, workshops and post conference tours are available at our website <https://icpcr.ut.ac.ir/>. We also encourage you to kindly forward this conference to your friends, students, scholars & staff. Further, any queries you may feel free to email us at icpcr.conf@ut.ac.ir.

Thank You Very Much,

Prof. Zohreh Kharazmi

Head of the Conference Executive Committee