Registration is now open for the Women's Transatlantic Prison Activism Since 1960 conference at The Rothermere American Institute at The University of Oxford. This one day symposium brings together researchers, creative thinkers, artists and wider communities interested in policing, criminal justice and incarceration with a particular focus on women's transatlantic prison activism. The plenary lecture will be given by author and freelance journalist Victoria Law.

For more details a provisional programme please visit the website. Registration is through Eventbrite: <https://wtpaconference.eventbrite.co.uk>

Ticket prices include lunch and tea and coffee refreshments provided throughout the day. We are able to offer subsidised registration to all PGR and ECR attendees.
