

Call for Papers - Black presence in Early Modern France \(16th c - 19th c\)

Announcement published by Julie DUPRAT on Wednesday, July 24, 2019

Type:

Call for Papers

Date:

September 20, 2019

Location:

France

Subject Fields:

Atlantic History / Studies, Black History / Studies, Early Modern History and Period Studies, French History / Studies, Slavery

Lumières is a journal published by the Presses Universitaires de Bordeaux for the University Bordeaux Montaigne. Its 34th issue, scheduled for June 2020, will focus on Black minorities in France during the Early Modern period. Black studies are far from being a novelty in France, with several in-depth studies already published over the past ten years. Nevertheless, these researches tend to focus always on the same period (the pre-revolutionary years) and the same cities (Paris or Bordeaux). The 34th issue of the Lumières journal aims to provide other points of view and open up research opportunities: therefore, it will put forward new studies in order to show how diverse the experiences of Black people living in France during the Early Modern period were. A more detailed argument can be read here : <https://calenda.org/614086> !

Proposals for articles (maximal length of 500 words), should be submitted before 20 September 2019 to the following address: julie.duprat@enc-sorbonne.fr. The selected proposals have to be returned before December 15, 2019. They may be written in French or English

Contact Info:

Julie Duprat, post-graduate from the Ecole Nationale des Chartes, library curator

Contact Email:

julie.duprat@enc-sorbonne.fr