

Victorian Pressed Flower Workshop

Announcement published by Debra Lampert-Rudman on Tuesday, August 13, 2019

Type:

Workshop

Date:

September 21, 2019

Location:

New Jersey, United States

Subject Fields:

Art, Art History & Visual Studies, American History / Studies, History Education, Women's & Gender History / Studies

11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

$25; $15 for Friends of Morven

Spend an afternoon as Victorian women, such as Harriet Stockton might have, and create pressed flower art surrounded by historic garden with Morven's Curator of Education Debra Lampert-Rudman. Learn the "love language" of flowers, enjoy an illustrated powerpoint on this Victorian art, and create artwork of your own special design suitable for framing. All flowers, materials, and art instruction provided. No previous experience required and space is limited, ages 12 and up. Ticket price includes Museum admission.

Contact Info:

Debra Lampert-Rudman, M.Ed.

Curator of Education and Public Programs

Morven Museum & Garden

55 Stockton Street

Princeton, NJ 08540

www.morven.org

Contact Email:

info@morven.org

URL:

<https://www.eventbrite.com/e/september-victorian-pressed-flower-workshop-tickets-64796217230>