

Lecture: “Human Trafficking and Internal Displacement in the Roman Empire,” by Dr. Christopher J. Fuhrmann

Page published by David Prior on Friday, August 30, 2019

H-Slavery is delighted to share the following lecture, “Human Trafficking and Internal Displacement in the Roman Empire,” by Dr. Christopher J. Fuhrmann of the University of North Texas, delivered at the University of New Mexico on February 27, 2019. Special thanks are due to the History Department at the University of New Mexico, the Gorham Fund, University of New Mexico Information Technologies, and the event organizers, Dr. Nikolaus Leo Overtoom, Visiting Lecturer in Ancient History, University of New Mexico.