

CFP for Oct 2021 symposium on Constructing Presidential Legacies: Critical Perspectives on American Presidential Libraries and Museums

Announcement published by Marie-Alice L'Heureux on Thursday, January 2, 2020

Type:

Call for Papers

Date:

December 27, 2019 to May 30, 2020

Location:

Kansas, United States

Subject Fields:

American History / Studies, Architecture and Architectural History, Urban Design and Planning, Urban History / Studies, Political History / Studies

We invite a wide range of scholars interested in any aspects of US Presidential Libraries and Museum's to submit ~500-word abstracts by May 30, 2020, for a symposium to be held October 8-9, 2021, followed by an edited publication in early 2022. Presidential Libraries and Museums' function as "memorials to individuals" and "memorials of their times" and over time have given rise to many questions across a variety of fields. Beyond the buildings, the exhibitions and narratives also contribute to the shaping, presentation and reinterpretation of presidential legacies. Any critique of the thirteen existing libraries from Hoover to George W. Bush and future libraries (Obama and Trump) are welcomed. We also encourage potential participants to contact us prior to submitting to discuss possible subjects in order to achieve a wide range of paper topics and approaches.
