QUERY: Information on a reversed map on a sundial

Discussion published by David Weimer on Wednesday, January 15, 2020

Dear Colleagues,

I've been passed along a map from a scholar who is trying to figure out some more about an unusual map. It is pasted onto a basic sundial, made in Nuremberg in 1599. It shows the Atlantic but is left-right reversed. We don't know if the torn off reference / signature at the bottom (LEVINVS HVLSIVS F. [Norimbergae.] 1599) is spurious or useful. Check out the map and let me know any thoughts!

with thanks,

Dave
