

Online Nahuatl Instruction

Discussion published by John Schwaller on Sunday, April 5, 2020

From: John Sullivan <summernahuatl@utah.edu>

Notlazohtequixpoyohuan,

The University of Utah/IDIEZ 2020 Summer Nahuatl Program will be held online from June 22 to August 31 (six weeks). It will include two hours per day of Modern Nahuatl, at the beginning, intermediate and advanced levels; two hours per day of Classical Nahuatl at the beginning and intermediate/advanced levels; as well as one hour per day of individual and small group instruction. Classes will be held Monday through Friday, beginning at 9am and finishing by 5pm, Mountain time. All instruction will be live, using an online videoconferencing platform. Tuition for non-FLAS recipients is US$3000. The US Department of Education has approved the award of FLAS grants for online summer language courses, and the University of Utah administration is currently seeking approval of this for our Nahuatl program.

More information will be available shortly at <https://latin-american-studies.utah.edu/nahuatllanguageprogram/> , where you can register now.

Please direct your questions to summernahuatl@utah.edu

Best,

John Sullivan