GMU Online Graduate Certificate Program in Digital Public Humanities

Discussion published by Brian Platt on Friday, May 15, 2020
The Department of History and Art History at George Mason University, in collaboration with the Smithsonian Institution and the Roy Rosenzweig Center for History and New Media, has created a fully online graduate certificate program in digital public humanities. The program is designed to help humanities professionals learn how to use digital media to enhance their work and advance their careers. This is a part-time, 15-credit certificate program that includes three fully online courses and either a guided capstone project or a virtual internship with a unit of the Smithsonian Institution or other affiliated museums.

For more information go to this site: https://historyarthistory.gmu.edu/programs/LA-CERG-DPH

For a short video about the program, click here: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=0Mq7XdL4l7w

If you have any questions about the program, contact me by e-mail or phone (see below). We will begin reviewing applications for fall 2020 admission on March 15, and will continue until the cohort is filled.

Brian Platt
Chair, Department of History and Art History
Director, Smithsonian-Mason Graduate Certificate in Digital Public Humanities
George Mason University
Fairfax, VA 22030
Bplatt1@gmu.edu