Resources for Managing WFH

Discussion published by Catherine Cocks on Monday, May 18, 2020
A post from Feeding the Elephant: A Forum for Scholarly Communications

The Association of University Presses has compiled some resources for scholars trying to teach and do research from home. These include

- Materials made freely accessible through June 2020;
- Sources for understanding pandemics and responses to them across time and place; and
- Suggestions for reading to relieve a weary mind.

And if you love to look at beautiful book covers, check out the winners of the most recent AUPresses Book, Jacket, and Journal show. Images from previous shows also available!