

Do Black Lives Matter in British History? A Conversation with Professor David Olusoga OBE

Announcement published by Joseph L. Yannielli on Wednesday, October 21, 2020

Type:

Event

Date:

October 30, 2020

Location:

United Kingdom

Subject Fields:

Black History / Studies, British History / Studies, Colonial and Post-Colonial History / Studies, Slavery, Public History

David Olusoga is a British-Nigerian historian, broadcaster and BAFTA award-winning presenter and filmmaker. His television series include Black and British: A Forgotten History, A House Through Time, Civilisations, and The Unwanted: The Secret Windrush Files. His books on colonialism and empire have won numerous accolades, including the PEN Hessel-Tiltman Prize. His latest book is Black and British: A Short Essential History. Join Aston University students and staff for a virtual conversation with Professor Olusoga. Admission is free and open to the public.

Please register by 26 October to submit questions in advance.

This live online event is organised and hosted by the Department of History, Languages and Translation at Aston University.

Contact Info:

Aston University

Contact Email:

sro@aston.ac.uk

URL:

<https://www.aston.ac.uk/events/do-black-lives-matter-british-history>