

NECS Online Lecture Series on "Media and Migration" \(1/5\): Radha Sarma Hegde, "Decentering the Default: Reflections on Migration and Method"

Discussion published by Mara Mattoscio on Thursday, January 14, 2021

Dear All,

We are excited to announce that the first event of our Online Lecture Series on Media and Migration, co-organized by Giuseppe Fidotta (Concordia University), Mara Mattoscio ("Gabriele d'Annunzio" University of Pescara), and Dalila Missero (Oxford Brookes University), with the support of NECS and the Centre for Research in the Arts at Oxford Brookes, will take place on 28 January 2021.

Our guest speaker that day is Professor Radha Sarma Hegde (Department of Media, Culture and Communication at New York University), who will deliver a lecture entitled "Decentering the Default: Reflections on Migration and Method". Professor Hegde will then respond to questions posed by our discussants and by the general public.

For more information on the lecture and our speaker, please visit this page.

The lecture will take place on Zoom, on 28 January 2021, at 18:00 CET.

In order to join the Zoom Session, please register at graduates@necs.org before January 27, 2021. The Online Lecture will also be streamed live on NECS' Facebook group.
