Discussion published by Steven Walton on Tuesday, January 26, 2021

https://brill.com/view/journals/vulc/8/1/vulc.8.issue-1.xml (subscription required)

Articles

Azriel Lorber, "Technology-Driven Revolutions in Military Affairs: Some Thoughts," pp. 5-25

Yoel Bergman, "Closing the Gaps in US Rocket Propellant Production, 1940–1945," pp. 54-73

Adam Givens, "'The Enthusiasm Expressed by Our Industry Friends': The US Army, the American Helicopter Industry, and Developing VTOL Technology, 1950–1965," pp. 100-124. —Given's essay is the winner of the 2020 Vulcan Early Career Prize in the history of military technology and society. For the award citation, see Editorial in this issue. This article will be open-access for the first 6 months of 2020.

Book Reviews

Ian E. J. Hill. 2018. Advocating Weapons, War, and Terrorism, reviewed by Nicholas Michael Sambaluk, pp. 136-137

Mark T. Peters II. 2018. Cashing In on Cyber-Power: How Interdependent Actors Seek Economic Outcomes in a Digital World, reviewed by Philip R. Egert, pp. 138-140