

Job: University of Cape Town, Lecturer in Historical Studies, focus on modern Africa

Discussion published by Kathleen Sheldon on Tuesday, February 23, 2021

University of Cape Town, Historical Studies

Lecturer in the Department of Historical Studies

Applications are invited for one full-time permanent appointment at the Lecturer level in the Department of Historical Studies, University of Cape Town.

"We particularly encourage application from scholars pursuing innovative research in any field of intellectual, cultural, economic, political and social history of modern Africa."

Full requirements and information at the link, but note this preference:

"Experience in critically using historically underrepresented southern African vernacular sources in applicants' own research."

https://www.h-net.org/jobs/job_display.php?id=61045