

14th Annual Student Conference, "Disruption: Destructive & Generative Ruptures in Latin America & the Caribbean"

Announcement published by Victor Hernandez on Monday, April 19, 2021

Type:

Conference

Date:

April 29, 2021 to April 30, 2021

Location:

Maryland, United States

Subject Fields:

Humanities, Latin American and Caribbean History / Studies, Chicana/o History / Studies, Social Sciences, Research and Methodology

The Latin American Studies Center and the Graduate Collective at the University of Maryland, College Park is hosting the 14th Annual Student Conference - "Disruption: Destructive and Generative Ruptures in Latin America and the Caribbean," which will take place online on April 29 and 30, 2021. We are excited to host Dr. Clara Irazábal, Director of the Urban Studies & Planning Program at the University of Maryland; Dr. Yanilda González, Assistant Professor of Public Policy at the Harvard Kennedy School; and Dr. Daniel B. Coleman, Assistant Professor, Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies at UNC-Greensboro. We also have a fascinating line-up of graduate and undergraduate students who will share their research, and we are showing an online art exhibition. Please be sure to register at: go.umd.edu/lascconference.

Contact Info:

Latin American Studies Center at the University of Maryland, College Park

lasc@umd.edu

Contact Email:

lasc@umd.edu

URL:

<https://lascgradcollective.wixsite.com/conference>