Subject Fields:

European History / Studies, Humanities, Political Science, Immigration & Migration History / Studies, Diplomacy and International Relations

If you are not on the official program and would like to explore the CES International Conference of Europeanists, you may wish to register for $25 as a conference observer.

As an observer, you will be able to audit all of our great session line-ups scheduled for the week of June 21-25, hear our plenary speakers, and connect with scholars addressing major Europeanist research topics with a global perspective.

However, you may also want to consider our $55 observer package. This option is open to anyone who has not had an active CES membership within the past five years and includes not only a conference pass for our more than 300 sessions, but also a one-year CES membership, as well as membership in one CES research network of your choice.

As part of the observer package, your new CES membership will give you access to a week-long training for Europeanists (June 14-18) where pitching to presses, writing major research grants, and thinking outside of the humanities box are just some of the topics that await you. You will also be eligible to sign up for members-only workshops throughout the year.

You may register at either the $25 conference observer rate or the $55 observer package rate by June 7, 2021 at 12:00 pm noon EDT.
