

Deadline Extended: The Humanities and Technology Review Spring 2022 Issue

Announcement published by Robert Vigliotti on Monday, September 27, 2021

Type:

Call for Publications

Date:

November 15, 2021

Location:

United States

Subject Fields:

Digital Humanities, History of Science, Medicine, and Technology, Humanities, Philosophy, Social History / Studies

The Humanities and Technology Review Call for Articles and Book Reviews

The Humanities and Technology Review (HTR) is the interdisciplinary peer-reviewed journal of the Humanities and Technology Association (HTA). Published twice annually, the HTR explores the interface between the humanities and technology. The editors welcome all submissions on this theme from any discipline. The HTR is currently accepting papers of 6000-8000 word length for its Spring 2022 issue.

Manuscript Submissions, Policy, and Instructions

The HTR is available both in print and electronic media. Manuscripts should follow the APA Publication Manual (6th edition) and should be approximately 6000 to no more than 8000 words, including endnotes.

All submissions undergo a double-blind peer review process and should be formatted accordingly.

Submissions should be sent by email as an MSWORD attachment to: Dr. Robert Vigliotti, Senior Editor, Humanities and Technology Review at Robert.Vigliotti@rockhurst.edu.

For more information visit submissions at <https://htronline.weebly.com/>

Please send queries concerning book reviews to Dr. Patrick Gamez, Book Review Editor, Humanities and Technology Review at patrick.j.gamez@gmail.com. Reviews should be on books published within two years of the journal volume in which they will appear (the next volume will be published Spring 2022).

The deadline for manuscript submission is November 15, 2021.

Contact Info:

Robert Vigliotti, Ph.D.

Senior Editor, Humanities and Technology Review

Contact Email:

robert.vigliotti@rockhurst.edu

URL:

<http://htronline.weebly.com/>