

Transnational Childism Colloquium titled “Childism and Philosophy”

Announcement published by Tanu Biswas on Tuesday, October 19, 2021

Type:

Symposium

Date:

December 10, 2021

Subject Fields:

Childhood and Education, Humanities, Social Sciences, Philosophy

Welcome to the next Transnational Childism Colloquium titled “Childism and Philosophy” which will take place on Friday, December 10 from 9:00 to 11:00 am US Philadelphia time (ET) via Zoom. Please visit the institute's website (url below) for the link.

This Transnational Childism Colloquium brings together a diversity of perspectives to develop conceptual clarity about what could and should be meant by the term childism.

- What does the notion of childism mean, particularly but not only in its childhood studies sense?
- How could childism contribute to better understandings of human beings and relations?
- How is the concept related to and distinct from philosophies in feminism, liberalism, poststructuralism, and other philosophies?
- How is childism a challenge to the discipline of philosophy itself?

Panel 1 - Philosophical Perspectives

- Hanne Warming, Roskilde University
- Tanu Biswas, University of Stavanger
- John Wall, Rutgers University

- Karin Murriss, University of Oulu

Panel 2 - Critical Engagements

- David Kennedy, Montclair State University
- Walter Kohan, State University of Rio de Janeiro
- Katy Dineen, University College Cork
- Ohad Zehavi, Tel Aviv University

Contact Email:

tanu.biswas@uis.no

URL:

<https://www.childism.org/projects>