Subject Fields:

African American History / Studies, American History / Studies, Native American History / Studies, Women's & Gender History / Studies

The Georgia Historical Quarterly (the scholarly journal published by the Georgia Historical Society) invites authors to submit articles, essays, oral histories, and edited primary source materials on Georgia history, as well as on the history of the southern United States. We also publish essays on researching, writing, and teaching history, and those by and about contemporary history makers. All submissions are reviewed for originality of material, interpretation, style, and reader interest. Articles dealing with genealogy are not accepted. If you have any questions about submissions please contact Glenn McNair, editor of the GHQ.
