If you're an instructor at a post-secondary institution in the U.S. or Canada, consider running a Wikipedia assignment in the coming term. The idea is simple, students contribute to Wikipedia as an assignment in your course and in doing so, they have the chance to do work with long lasting impact. Wiki Education provides the support to ensure that students and instructors can successfully contribute to the world's largest online encyclopedia, and there are no fees to run a Wikipedia assignment. Ensure your spot in the program by applying by end of year. To get started or find out more information, visit teach.wikiedu.org. We hope we have the chance to work with you this spring.
