Announcement published by Michael Filimowicz on Monday, January 3, 2022

Type:

Call for Papers

Date:

March 1, 2022

Location:

British Columbia, Canada

Subject Fields:

Communication, Digital Humanities, Philosophy, Public Policy, Social Sciences

Open call for book chapters for Vols 6-10 of the new Routledge short form book series, Algorithms and Society. Each volume, based on Routledge's Focus format, will have 4-5 chapters. The volumes planned for 2022 are:

- Algorithmic Ethics
- Decolonizing Data
- China's Digital Civilization
- Information Disorder
- AI and the Future of Work

Submit a short abstract and bio by email to series editor Michael Filimowicz, michael_f@sfu.ca

The date is the deadline for abstract submissions. Because of the short format, the volumes can fill up quickly so please consider submitting a proposal earlier than later. Five volumes are planned per year so if you have a research interest that isn't covered by these five topics, please email the series editor about your idea as it may fit a future volume.
