Nominations open for the Pennsylvania Historical Association's 2022 Klein Book Prize

The Philip S. Klein Book Prize is awarded for the best book on a topic that illuminates the history of Pennsylvania. A selection committee evaluates submissions for overall quality of scholarship, the significance of contribution to historical knowledge and methodology, and the work's style, presentation, and readability.

First awarded in 1996, the prize was established in honor of Philip S. Klein, president of the Association from 1954 to 1957, and is awarded every even-numbered year. Notice of the award is distributed widely and carries a cash prize.

For the 2022 award, peer-reviewed books with publication dates of 2020 and 2021 will be accepted.
To be considered, please submit three (3) copies of the book, each containing a complete publication citation, by May 15, 2022.

Deadline May 15, 2022
