Workshop on Chinese Buddhism and Dunhuang Manuscripts, April 1, Princeton University, in-person

Discussion published by Stephen F. Teiser on Wednesday, March 16, 2022
Type: Workshop
Date: April 1, 2022
Location: New Jersey, United States
Subject Fields: Asian History / Studies, East Asian History / Studies, Philosophy, Religious Studies and Theology, World History / Studies

Please join us Friday, April 1, 2022, from 1:30-5:00 pm EDT in Jones Hall 202 on the Princeton University campus for a Workshop on Chinese Buddhism and Dunhuang Manuscripts: A Conversation with Emerging Scholars and Chunwen Hao.

Registration is required. Please visit our website for registration and more information.

The discovery in the year 1900 of more than 60,000 manuscripts holed up in a cave-shrine in northwestern China (Dunhuang, in Gansu Province) revolutionized the study of Chinese Buddhism and related fields. Now, more than 120 years later, recent advances include digital techniques, dissemination of photographs, and the internationalization of Dunhuang Studies. The workshop showcases emerging scholars at Princeton University working on Dunhuang manuscripts, in conversation with one of the most eminent scholars in the field, Chunwen Hao (Professor of Chinese History, Capital Normal University).

At present, we plan to hold this event in-person only. We do not anticipate opening any options for on-line attendance. We will post summaries of the papers and discussion on our website shortly after the event.

Sponsored by:
Princeton University Center for Culture, Society & Religion; East Asian Studies Program; Department of Religion

Glorisun Global Network for Buddhist Studies

Contact Info:

Stephen F. Teiser, Princeton University

Contact Email: sfteiser@princeton.edu

URL: https://csr.princeton.edu/events/2022/dunhuang-emerging-scholars-hao