2023 H-Net Teaching Conference

Critical Conversations: Teaching and Creating Community in Difficult Times
August 21 - August 24

Please join us for our second annual remote, Zoom conference sponsored by H-Teach. This is a global virtual conference, which will be held August 21 through August 24, beginning at 6 p.m. US Central time (CDT). Registration and attendance are free and open to all.

This year's theme, "Critical Conversations: Teaching and Creating Community in Difficult Times," is designed to bring teachers of all levels and disciplines together to share and discuss academic challenges and threats to academic freedom. While topics may especially resonate with those in the social sciences and humanities, presenters from various fields will share their strategies and successes in teaching issues surrounding diversity, equity, and inclusion, post-Covid classrooms, artificial intelligence, and more.

Registration and the conference program are available here.

Please register by 12 p.m. EST on August 21 to receive reminders and the Zoom links for the conference.

H-Net is an international interdisciplinary organization of scholars and teachers dedicated to developing the enormous educational potential of the Internet and the World Wide Web. Our edited networks publish peer reviewed essays, multimedia materials, and discussions for colleagues and the interested public. The computing heart and main office of H-Net resides at the History Department, Michigan State University, but H-Net officers, editors and subscribers come from all over the globe.

To learn more about H-Net, click here. If you would like to get involved at H-Net, please click here.

#HNetTeach23