The Center for German Studies is pleased to announce a lecture series on Germany’s initiatives in the field of environmental sustainability. The invited talks are linked to “Generation Green,” a new undergrad course cross-listed in the Department of German; and Science, Technology, and Society (STS). The lectures are open to guests upon request.

Sept. 1: Germany’s Environmental Policies, Arne Jungjohann, Heinrich Böll Foundation

Sept. 22: Romantic Ecologies, Prof. Chad Wellmon, Germanic Languages and Literatures, UVa

Sept. 29: Technology and Culture,” Prof. Dana Elzey, Materials Science and Engineering, UVa

Oct. 1st: German Climate Policy: Ambitions and Reality, Brian Marrs, Energy Consultant

Oct. 13: Putting a Price on the Planet, Prof. Mark White, McIntire School of Commerce, UVa

Oct. 15: Onshore and Offshore Wind Energy, J. Benjamin Goodman, Darden MBA Class of 2010; Jim Madden, Business Developer, BP Wind Energy

Oct. 27: Landscapes of Resistance, Prof. Joerg Sieweke, Landscape Architecture, UVa

Oct. 29: Green Urbanism, Prof. Timothy Beatley, Urban and Environmental Planning, UVa

Nov. 3rd: Transfer of Environmental Lessons from Germany to the U.S, Dale Medearis (Senior Environmental Planner at the Northern Virginia Regional Commission)

Nov. 5: Regenerative Design for a Bank and a School, Eugene Ryang, Landscape Architect

Nov. 12: Business Ethics and the Environment, Prof. Ed Freeman, Darden School of Business

Nov. 17: Climate Change in Germany and Abatement Strategies, Prof. Jose Fuentes, Environmental Sciences, UVa

Nov. 24: Germany's Ecological Tax Reform: Perspectives from a Think Tank, Dr. Michael Mehrling, President of the Ecologic Institute, Washington, DC

Dec. 1st: The Transatlantic Climate Bridge, Anja Kueppers and Friedo Sielemann, Embassy of the Federal Republic of Germany; Preston Bryant, Secretary of Natural Resources of the Commonwealth of Virginia

For questions, please contact Ms. Manuela Achilles, ma6cq@virginia.edu