

Rural Women: A Bibliography
Compiled by Melissa Walker, Ph.D.
George Dean Johnson, Jr. Professor of History,
Converse College

Compiler's Note: I send this work into the world with trepidation. I have worked to include a broad range of scholarship that considers rural women's lives and the implications of gender for rural people. While this list is dominated by scholarship on North America, I have included some international work. While I have tried to be as complete and inclusive as possible, I am certain that I have omitted important contributions to the historiography of rural women. If I have left off your work or that of other scholars you consider important, please send me the citation, and I will add the work to periodic updates of the bibliography. I may be reached at Melissa.walker@converse.edu.
